Ask the Guys

Dear Classified Guys, Every Sunday I open my front door and reach for the morning paper to read the classified section. A few months ago, I started noticing that the paper wasn't on my doorstep at the usual time. I checked with the newspaper carrier and found he delivers promptly every day by 5 am. I thought he was just covering up, until I also started noticing roses disappearing from my garden out by the mailbox. To figure it out, my son aimed his web camera toward the front porch and started recording. The next Sunday when my paper was missing, he reviewed the video. Turns out my neighbor gets up at 6 am on Sunday, takes the paper, and returns it around 7 am. I suspect he's behind the roses disappearing as well because he told me he started dating again since his divorce. I thought I knew my neighbor pretty well, but apparently not. I like the guy and don't want to be mean about this. What's the best way to handle this problem without ruining a neighborly friendship?

Carry: You have to love technology. Nowadays you can catch everything on video, even at 6 am.

Cash: Whether you get along with him or not, neighbors are just a part of life. Sometimes they can be quite friendly and helpful, while other times they can steal your roses when you're not looking.

Carry: In your case you're doing the right thing by not overreacting to the situation. Often when neighbors infringe upon others, people can become irritated or angry. These types of emotions usually lead to complicating the disagreement rather than working it out calmly.

Cash: The only way to resolve your dilemma is to let your neighbor know that his behavior is unacceptable.

Since it seems that you are on good terms with him, he may actually assume that it's okay to borrow the newspaper on Sunday or cut a few roses every now and then. He may not consider his behavior inappropriate.

Carry: Provided you stay calm when talking with your neighbor, asking him to stop should not ruin any friendship you may have. If you're not comfortable in discussing it with him in person, you could leave a note first and then follow up with a conversation later.

Cash: And when you do decide to talk to him in person, you could always be neighborly and bring him some freshly cut roses!

Fast Facts

Neighborhood Watch

One of the most common disputes between neighboring yards involves trees. From falling leaves and pinecones to protruding roots and overhanging branches, neighbors sometimes take actions into their own hands trimming or even killing the tree. However, those actions may carry a penalty. Take the case of Douglas Hoffman. When his view of the Las Vegas strip was blocked by trees on a neighboring property, he topped or cut down more than 500 trees over the course of one year. A jury eventually convicted him of "arboricide" and sentenced him up to 5 years in jail.

Celebrity Clash

If you think neighbor disputes are limited to the average homeowner, think again. Even the rich and famous have their bouts with neighbors. Actor Jim Belushi feuded for years with his neighbor Julie Newmar, co-star of the old "Batman" series. And he's not alone. Neighbors of comedian Lilly Tomlin mistakenly accused her of cutting down two eucalyptus trees on their property. Even Hulk Hogan battled his homeowners association over his pets.

Reader Humor

Between Neighbors

My dog Charlie travels with me in the car everywhere. Although he's supposed to sit in the back seat, he often tries to sneak into the driver's seat when I get out of the car.

Last week I pulled out of my driveway and realized that I left my purse in the house. I stopped at the curb, and hopped out to go get it. As I walked away from the car, I turned around and pointed to Charlie who was laying in the back seat. "Now stay," I said. "And don't move."

I didn't think much of it until I saw my neighbor look over at me. "That's pretty impressive training," he shouted, not realizing Charlie was in the back seat, "Normally I have to shift my car into park!"

(Thanks to Marie D.)
